

Chair Candidate, Department of Occupational Therapy

Nicholas Stergiou, Ph.D.

Distinguished Community Research
Chair and Professor, Biomechanics

Director, Biomechanics Research
Building, the Nebraska Biomechanics
Core Facility and the Center for Research in Biomechanics

University of Nebraska at Omaha

Seminar

A Perspective on Human Movement Variability:
Implications for Health and Pathology

Friday, August 15, 2014

11:00 am to 12:00 pm

HPNP Room G-312

Please contact Brigit Dermott (bdermott@phhp.ufl.edu) for more information.